Massage Therapy as a Career Choice

“Massage Therapy has achieved unprecedented popularity in recent years. Twenty-five million Americans make 60 million visits to 85,000 practitioners a year”

---Life Magazine---

“Millions of Americans are discovering that the ancient art of massage may be just what the doctor ordered to relieve pain, encourage healing, and even to just plain relax their stressed out bodies”

---Chicago Sun Times---

The profession of massage therapy is growing. More and more people are becoming involved in fitness programs, stress, reduction, relaxation, techniques, wellness and preventative health care. Traditional health practitioners are discovering the damage effects of stress and chronic tension. Massage Therapy is one of the few services available that directly affects the body's responses to stress and measurably strengthens the immune system.

Career opportunities for the massage therapists include private practice, health clubs, day and resort spas, beauty salons, sports teams, corporations (on-site or seated), stress reduction/relaxation centers, and working in association with other health care practitioners such as chiropractors, medical doctors, dentists, physical therapists, and psychologists.

As a Massage Therapist, you can enjoy flexible hours working in a relaxing, peaceful environment. You will be able to establish a work schedule to accommodate family and other personal time. If you like to make a difference in the quality of other lives, Massage Therapy could be the career you're looking for.

As a way of Enriching Your Life

While career opportunities in this field are plentiful there are many personal reasons for choosing to learn massage therapy. The power of touch and the healing potential within each person becomes apparent as you work in this field. The more we are surrounded by our high-tech lifestyles, the greater is the need for human touch. Doing massage will engage you physically, emotionally, intellectually, and spiritually. Helping people heal and increasing their overall sense of comfort brings a deep personal satisfaction and doing bodywork is a rewarding and healing for the giver and fun. Everyone has people in their lives that can benefit from the healing of massage. As a science, massage therapy increases body awareness, corrects system imbalances, assists in relaxation, reduces stress, increases vitality, and promotes a sense of well-being. As an art form, massage therapy facilitates a positive exchange of mental, emotional, and spiritual energies, which promotes holistic healing. Whether you enter this field in search of a new career, to add to your existing skills or to work with family and friends, our program can help you attain these goals.

SOFT TISSUE RELEASE

Class is 16 hours/Price is $265

Soft-tissue release (STR) is a powerful injury treatment technique developed in Europe with the world's fastest sprinters. STR affects the insidious way scar tissue is formed, and in chronic conditions STR breaks up fibrotic and adhered mass of scar tissue to quickly allow the muscle to return to its natural resting length. Once the muscle or muscle group has returned to the original resting length, there is an immediate release from the pain induced by the inflammation response. Decrease in pain and increase in range of motion are often immediate, offsetting any minor discomfort experience. STR can be modified so there is no client discomfort at all. Prerequisite: must be a CMP or CMT.
