ITMI Mission and Philosophy

Mission:

To inspire students to empower their fellow travelers to become better informed world citizens and ambassadors of good will.

ITMI is for individuals who dream of exploring the world and who desire to make a positive impact by sharing their passion for travel and to build bridges of understanding between people from around the globe. Tour directors and guides have a unique opportunity to become ambassadors of goodwill and to demonstrate respect for other cultures, traditions and for the sustainability of the environment.

ITMI continually strives to expand its reach within the tourism industry and beyond, to support initiatives that address the environmental and humanitarian challenges of our time. Each person, who is inspired to make a difference in the world, can become a powerful instrument of peace and transformation.

To leave footprints of understanding and good will throughout the world.

The ITMI History and Co-Founders

Ted Bravos, CTP, co-founder and director of the International Tour Management Institute is an industry pioneer, who helped to develop the first state-approved school in the United States designed specifically to train tour directors and guides. When he is not filling his role as primary instructor, he remains active as a tour director, and has led thousands of people to all parts of the world. After obtaining a Bachelor of Science degree in Biology from California Polytechnic University, he served as a Captain in the United States Marine Corps. Since 1970, he has been employed as a tour director and consultant for some of the most distinguished tour companies in the world. A respected thought leader and expert in travel and tourism; he has been a frequent speaker at industry events and been a guest on countless television and radio travel programs. He also co-hosted a national TV Pilot on travel called "Great Escapes" produced by Metromedia in Hollywood.

William Newton, Ph.D., co-founder of ITMI, worked in the field of travel since 1962. His experience included: travel agent, group tour planner-consultant, motor coach operator, guide, driver-guide, and tour director. For years he organized and led tours to Alaska, the Yukon and the Northwest Territories. Internationally, his specialties included Russia, Eastern Europe and South America. He wrote numerous articles on tour directing and about legal issues affecting the tour industry. He was a nationally recognized lecturer on and conducted seminars at nine National Tour Association Conventions. Dr. Newton held an MA. degree in Sociology from U.C. Santa Barbara and a Ph.D. in Higher Education from U.C. Berkeley. Sadly, in 2002, Bill passed away doing what he loved, touring in South America.

ITMI Code Of Ethics

The ITMI Code of Ethics was created to establish general guidelines for those stepping into the role of a Professional Tour Director or Guide.

As a student and subsequent graduate of ITMI, we will ask each ITMI graduate to follow these (see below) “rules of the road” while they journey across the globe as Ambassadors of Goodwill for the lifetime their career.

Pursue excellence in all areas of the tour directing and guiding profession.

Help to enhance the image of tour directors and guides through exemplary personal comportment, integrity, honesty, and professionalism.

Familiarize myself with the policies and procedures of tour companies for which I work and agree to adhere to those guidelines to the best of my abilities.

Respect the proprietary relationship of tour companies with their clients by not making contact with a company’s clients before or after an assignment or soliciting them for any business purpose except as permitted by that company.

Endeavor to present companies for which I work in the best possible light to tour clients, suppliers and the general public.

Agree not to cancel any guaranteed tour assignments except in the cases of illness or emergency unless given a release by the company providing the work. If cancellation of services is necessary, I will give the company as much notice as possible and will offer assistance in finding a suitable replacement.

Assist other tour directors and guides in the field even if they are not ITMI certified alumni.

Show professional courtesy to other tour directors and guides by refraining from making negative comments about them or their tour companies to clients, suppliers and the general public.

Discuss with colleagues any breach of conduct by another Tour Director or suppliers in a tactful, diplomatic and professional manner.

Guard against prejudice and always present a fair and balanced picture.

Strive to be an Ambassador of Good Will by helping tour clients to better understand the history, cultures, customs and values of people around the world.

Assist ITMI in creating awareness within the tour industry and the general public of this Code of Ethics for Tour Directors and Guides.

Is Tour Directing for You?

Tour directing is a dynamic career that calls for strong personal attributes. Out of the large number of applicants that apply to ITMI, only a select few (20-28 students per class) are invited to attend our personalized training program. While these students come from diverse backgrounds and have varying skills and talents, they all have the following things in common:

- They like people
- Have excellent communication skills
- Are bored by routine
- Love to travel; experience new adventures
- Have a strong sense of independence
- Are creative and flexible
- Can "take charge" and be responsible
- Possess a good measure of "common sense"
- Are just plain fun to be around
- Want to make a difference in the world

The most successful applicants are those who exhibit maturity, possess a genuine interest and skill in working with groups of people and enjoy traveling.

The goal of the International Tour Management Institute is to provide you with the tools and individual direction you need to succeed in this rewarding career.

A Career on Your Terms

Are There Many Jobs Available?

Travel plays a critical role in the world's economy. In the aftermath of what was called the Great Recession of our time, the travel industry has stepped forward as one of the key drivers of the American economy, a leading employer in communities across the U.S. and around the world. The tour and travel industry is a highly efficient revenue generator for state and local governments. , a leading employer in communities across the U.S., and a

Although the travel industry is not immune to today's economy, when compared to other industries, it has continued to grow. Years ago, travel was considered a luxury – today it's almost a necessity of life. Increasingly people have more leisure time and money to travel, and they are spending billions of dollars to visit new places. It's safe to say that Tour Directors will not be replaced by computers!

According to the National Tour Association and Travel Trade Magazine, group tours are becoming more popular than ever, especially motorcoach tours of North America. People are still curious about the world, but many want to see America first.

Today most tour companies realize that the single most important element of a successful group tour is the Tour Director. Because of this, they are always on the lookout for quality Tour Directors to conduct their programs. They need creative individuals who like to work with people, enjoy traveling and want a new challenge; people they can trust with responsibility of professionally providing the service and standards required by the client and company. Globus and Tauck, two of the most prestigious tour operators in the world, have employed hundreds of our graduates as Tour Directors.

Some of the over one thousand tour companies who have employed ITMI graduates read like Who's Who in the travel industry: Aberkrombie & Kent, Adventures by Disney, AFC Vacations, Allied Tpro, ATI, APT, Brennan Vacations, Caravan, Carlson Marketing Group, Collette, Contiki, Cruise West, Destination America, EF Explore America, Gadabout, Globus Family of Brands, Go West Tours, Grand Circle, Gerber, HE Travel, Holland America - Princess, Holiday Vacations, Insight Vacations, Mauiva, Maritz, Mayflower, McGettigan, National Geographic Expeditions, New Directions, New Horizon, NewMarket, Paragon, Premier World Discovery, Peak Advetures & Tours, Rick Steves Europe, Saga, SEI Meetings & Incentives, SITA World Tours, Streamlinevents, Smithsonian, Sugar Tours, Tauck, Titan, Thomas Gohagen, Trafalgar, Travcoa, Travelsphere, Trek America, Trump Tours, Vantage, Wolfe Advetures & Tours, YMT Vacations, WorldStrides.

Some of our graduates actually pay for the entire ITMI training program with the money earned from two weeks of touring!

Part Time or Full Time Employment

One of the attractive features about Tour Directing is that it may actually complement your existing profession and become an integrated career. At ITMI we have found that over the years, many of our graduates have actually preferred to work on a part-time basis even after attaining full-time status.

It is possible to work on a part-time basis with a number of different tour companies rather than a full time position. This means you can work as a Tour Director when your schedule permits, such as weekends or summer vacations.

Achieving full-time employment as a Tour Director does not usually happen overnight. As in other professions, it can take a number of years to become established in the field; however, this depends on the individual. Although experience is important, more tour companies are recognizing the value of professional training and hire Tour Directors on their ability and not their tenure.

If you are a college student, teacher, travel agent, secretary, homemaker, retired or work on a freelance or temporary basis, becoming a Tour Director may provide you the best of both worlds. The keynote is flexibility.

The ITMI Difference

Career Counseling

Even if you are not in the tour and travel industry already the ITMI team is committed to your success, before and after graduation. A personal Career Counseling / Assesment interview is conducted prior to acceptance to evaluate your aptitude for Tour Management. Since the student-teacher ratio is 10 to 1, individual attention and guidance is given throughout the training. The Institute will assist you in preparing your résumé and cover letter and will instruct you on interview techniques. After successful completion of the course, a follow-up exit interview, strategy session and action plan will be conducted to discuss your overall performance in the course, your career goals in Tour Management and recommendations on how to attain those goals. In addition to the strategy session, ITMI also conducts a graduate action plan follow up within the first few months of graduation. Unlimited, lifetime career counseling and strategy sessions are open to all graduates.

Lifetime Placement Assistance / Job Leads

A unique factor about employment opportunities in Tour Guiding / Management is that you are not limited to working for local tour companies only, but instead have diverse opportunities to work for national and international companies throughout the world without relocating your home base. Many Graduates work both locally and over-the-road.

The major tour companies maintain direct and personal contact with the International Tour Management Institute for professionally trained Tour Directors and Guides and the Institute refers graduates to these companies. Promise of such assistance should not be construed as a guarantee of employment. Although the Institute provides the names, addresses and a contact person for hundreds of Tour Companies, it is during the follow up interview that the Institute Instructors target new graduates towards specific companies and individuals to pursue job opportunities. Graduates have access not only to all of the tour comapnies that ITMI has built a relationship with but also unlimited, lifetime career counseling. Tour companies contact ITMI almost daily with their hiring needs. Graduates receive job leads year round for local and over-the-road assignments, domestic and international. Graduates have also opportunities to network with local ITMI Alumni Associations as well as local Tour Guide Guilds. Networking is one of the best ways for Graduates to receive job leads and form mentoring relationships with fellow ITMI Alumni.

Method of Instruction

Classes are limited to 28 students and are conducted seminar style to allow maximum class participation. All instruction is given in English. No ESL instruction is offered. The method of instruction is "team teaching". There will be at least two primary instructors in each class. This will enable you to become personally acquainted with your instructors and enable you to work with them on an individual basis. Due to the unique nature of the course, no credit for previous experience will be granted.

Satisfactory Progress Policy / Dismissal Policy / Attendance / Leave of Absence

If any student falls behind in the class the instructor will notify the Institution of the situation. Unsatisfactory progress may be due to poor attendance, low test scores, lack of effort or class participation. The student will be notified of the progress and will discuss with instructors a plan to correct the problem area(s) prior to final class meeting. The student will be allowed to continue in the course at the discretion of the Institution and instructors. If no significant progress is made by the student, the student is subject to dismissal by the Institution.

Re-entry by students who have been dismissed or have only completed Week I is considered on a case-by-case basis. The student must re-apply to the program and include very strong letters of recommendation. The decision to accept the student back into the program is made jointly by the Institutions Administrative Staff and Instructors.

Dismissals are considered remote, but the Institute will reserve the right to dismiss a student on any of the following grounds: conduct detrimental to the reputation of the Institute or its students, incomplete work, tardiness (3 or more times), unsatisfactory attendance, and / or poor physical or mental health. A refund of tuition will then be made in accordance with the refund policies outlined in this brochure. A leave of absence may be granted for medical or personal reasons with written request and documentation. Leave of absences are granted in year-long increments. Students may take up to 24 months leave of absence from date of course. Absences longer than 24 months will require student to re-apply and re-take course. Any completed courses will stay on the students record for up to 24 months. The Institute may require the student to take any of the previous courses, in which case the student will need to pay current course fees for the course again.

Students Right to Cancel / Refund Policy

The applicant/student has the right to cancel the enrollment agreement and obtain a refund in accordance with the Cancellation and Refund Policy outlined below. Cancellation will occur when the student gives written notice of cancellation to the school at the administrative office listed above. Notice of cancellation should be addressed to ITMI Admissions.

In addition, the student may withdraw from a course after instruction has started and receive a pro rata refund for the unused portion of the tuition and other refundable charges if the student has completed 60% or less of the instruction. For example, if the student completes only 20 hours of a 50-hour course and paid $1,000 tuition, they would receive a refund of $600.
